Flying Father Writes Songs, Breaks Records

NEW YORK—(AP)—Max Conrad, the flying father, had a date with Tin Pan Alley today.

The 47-year-old commercial pilot flew in from Los Angeles yesterday in a tiny Piper Pacer monoplane to set an unofficial record, or possibly two, for light planes.

Now he wants to set some sort of an unofficial selling record for part-time songwriters.

He said he brought four new songs with him and hoped to peddle them all in a day or so. Then he plans to return to his wife and nine children in Mirror Lake, Minn., outside Minneapolis.

One of his songs was composed on a solo flight to Rome, Italy, last year, Conrad said.

He landed at La Guardia Field here yesterday afternoon 23 hours and four minutes after taking off from Los Angeles.

John M. Jones made the trip in 30 hours and 47 minutes in 1938 to set the official record.

Conrad's flight was not officially timed by the National Aeronautics Association, which keeps tap on records.

Crackdown On Profits To Squelch Inflation Outlined By Johnston

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston asked today for powers to enforce a national crackdown on spiraling profits—ranging from the barnyard to the union bargaining room and industrial price sheets.

He told the Senate banking committee in prepared testimony there are six major threats to a sound dollar. He laid down a six point program for flattening the inflation spiral. Otherwise, he said, "we cannot mount the defense effort we need."

Johnston called for removal of one price ceiling—the $10,000 limit on fines which can be assessed against violators of the defense production act. Johnston called the $10,000 maximum fine "an invitation to try to get away with bigger pickings."

Johnston was called before the committee to discuss the administration's request for extension and broadening of the production act. It expires June 30.

Farm, industrial and landlord earnings must all be levelled off together, Johnston said, if "we are to have a completely rounded, integrated, sensible economic stabilization program." Commercial, as well as private rents, he said, "must be included" in economic controls.

Six Big Threats

Here are the six threats to the sound dollar Johnston outlined:

1. The expected injection of one billion dollars weekly into the country's economic bloodstream when defense spending goes into high gear later this year.

2. "Milk-it-dry" profits, price and wage demands.

3. Rising food prices.

4. Speculative scare buying and hoarding when consumer shortages appear.

5. Any break in the "present peace" between labor and management.

6. General unwillingness to recognize existence of a national emergency.

He proposed that Congress provide these remedies:

1. "Pay-as-we-go" taxation to pump spending money out of circulation.

2. Pay-as-we-go credit policies.

3. Rising food prices.

4. Speculative scare buying and hoarding when consumer shortages appear.

Norton 'Quite Normal,' Says Dr. H. J. Defnet

John P. Norton in December, 1950, shortly before he made a new will leaving the bulk of his estate to the Escanaba school district, "seemed to be quite normal in all respects" for a man 70 years of age, Dr. H. J. Defnet, Escanaba physician and surgeon, today testified in the Norton will contest hearing.

Hearing in the contest of the Norton will resumed today before a jury in circuit court at Escanaba with Judge Glenn W. Jackson presiding.

Norton made his last will on Jan. 5, 1950, and died July 12, 1950. The will is being contested by his brothers, Mack and Charles Norton of Cassopolis, Mich., and a nephew, Thomas Norton, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Mental Facilities "Intact"

Answering to four questions on whether in his opinion, based on the testimony he had given, Dr. Defnet considered Norton mentally competent to make a will without prompting, Dr. Defnet replied:

"Yes, his mental facilities were all intact."

Dr. Defnet said that he had known Norton for many years, beginning about 1909 when Norton established the Escanaba Daily Press. At that time Dr. Defnet, as a boy, was employed as a "printer's devil," he testified.

Tells Of Conversations

Later Dr. Defnet attended medical school, served as physician and surgeon in World War I, and then returned to Escanaba to practice.

Dr. Defnet said that he had treated Mrs. Norton for many years for a diabetic condition, and had seen Mr. Norton almost daily. In February of 1949 he performed a hernia operation on Norton.

He described conversations with Norton and in the fall of 1949 said Norton would stop at his office. Although a nurse was on duty at the Norton home and Dr. Defnet did not have to call on Mrs. Norton each day, Norton expressed concern about her condition.

"Doctor, be sure and see Ann this evening on your way home," Dr. Defnet quoted Norton as saying.

Corrects Prior Statements

Norton was capable of carrying on "quite a conversation" when he was among those he considered his friends, but among strangers he limited himself to words he could pronounce easily, Dr. Defnet said. Norton suffered a stroke in 1945 and at first his speech was

Barnett To Get Polygraph Test

Examination Will Be On Wednesday

Logan Barnett, jr., the last person known to have been with Mrs. Priscilla Heath before her death, will submit to a lie detector test in the office of the Michigan State Police at Gladstone tomorrow.

Safety Director Glen Leonard reported this morning that Sgt. Wilbur Petermann, State Police, Lansing headquarters, will fly to Escanaba Wednesday morning. Barnett has consented to take the test and will probably submit to the polygraph examination tomorrow afternoon.

Barnett was arraigned in justice court yesterday afternoon on a technical charge of driving an automobile with improper plates. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the county jail without bond by agreement of Barnett and his attorney, Harlan Yeland, with the city law enforcement officials and Prosecutor Clyde McGonagle.

Sensitive Instrument
The polygraph is an extremely sensitive instrument designed to show sudden changes in respiration and blood pressure during questioning. In theory, the machine will indicate when the person is not giving a truthful answer to a question. The operation of the machine and the questioning, however, must be conducted by a person properly trained for this work. Sgt. Wilbur Petermann, a polygraph expert, will conduct the examination and will interpret the results.

Barnett was with Mrs. Heath at two a. m. last Wednesday morning, the last time that she was seen alive. Her body was recovered from Bay de Noe, near the municipal dock, at 10:10 a. m. Sunday.

Barnett has insisted in repeated interrogations that he "blacked out" as a result of heavy drinking and cannot remember anything for a period of at least three hours, from before two a. m. Wednesday May 9 to five o'clock that morning when he woke up in his car, parked at the curb in the 1000 block of Ludington street.

Police are continuing their investigation of other aspects of the case but have not indicated any new developments.

Alphonse LaBelle Of Harris Dies, Services Thursday

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank Getzloff of Detroit and Mrs. David Corriveau of Powers; five sons, Henry and Joseph of Wilson, Alfred of Linwood, Mich., Philip of Detroit, and Dona of Harris; 21 grandchildren and 9 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 9 Thursday morning at St. George's church with Father Vladimire officiating. Burial will be in Bark River cemetery. Friends of the family may call at the Boyle funeral home in Bark River beginning at 4 this afternoon and at the family home beginning at 4 p. m. Wednesday. The rosary will be recited at the home at 8:30 Wednesday evening.

Russia's Shipment Of Wheat To India Won't Prevent Famine

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU of India demonstrated extremely poor judgment in the manner in which he manipulated for propaganda purposes the announcement of a shipment of Russian wheat to India last week.

Very dramatically in an address in parliament, Nehru announced that "Russian ships with wheat have started for India." He referred to a purchase of 50,000 tons, a very small portion of India's needs in a period of famine conditions that exist now.

Nehru failed to report to the people of India that the United States has been sending 100,000 tons of wheat per month through regular trade channels, a total of 411,000 tons in the first four months of the year. And it was an hour after his announcement of the Russian wheat shipment that Nehru reported Indian acceptance of proposed American terms for much larger shipments of wheat.

The manner in which Nehru deliberately played up the Russian shipment was bad judgment for the Indian prime minister because by his own admission, the United States is the main reliance of India to avert famine. No other country—including Russia—has the supply of wheat in sufficient quantities to save the people of India from great suffering through starvation.

It is unfortunate that so much delay has been encountered in the American plan to increase the shipments of grain to India. The proposal has been debated in Congress for months. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the United States has been shipping far greater quantities of wheat to India than Russia has—by a margin of 10 to 1—Nehru's announcement gave the impression to the people of India that hope for starvation comes from Russia, not America.

Military Stalemate At Hand In Korea

GENERAL RIDGWAY is not yet claiming that the Chinese Reds' spring offensive has been finally crushed. He declares only that we scored a great victory in turning back its first phase.

Since that drive was blunted, reconnaissance reports a new build-up of Communist forces. It is logical to expect another try, inasmuch as the initial attack was of relatively short duration and can hardly classify as an all-out bid to throw us into the sea.

Yet on this we might be fooled. UN forces inflicted more than 70,000 casualties on the Red Chinese in their abortive attempt to recapture Seoul. No army on earth can sustain losses of that size without feeling the hurt.

There are scattered signs that the Reds might not undertake a second phase of their spring campaign. The siege of Seoul has been lifted. Chinese are reported once more pulling back to or beyond the much-crossed 38th parallel. Red prisoners tell their captors "the war is over."

All this may be designed to deceive, and American commanders are not trusting such signs. But it is at least a possibility that the Chinese Communists have had all they want in the way of punishment for some time.

It may even be occurring to Chinese leaders that there is no good point in any further offensive now or ever in Korea, so long as it must be conducted as was their spring drive. For that campaign featured no important use of armor. It made the Chinese soldier a human battering ram, and when it was over his broken body lay in a Korean ditch.

Red China can repeat this kind of offensive if it is willing to face the likelihood that 70,000 or 80,000 casualties will be the consequence. If not, it can either give up in Korea or appeal to the Russians for greater assistance.

Up to now Russian aid has fallen short of what the Chinese would need for a successful offensive. This may be deliberate on the Kremlin's part, to keep China embroiled with UN forces and thus more dependent on the Soviet Union. Or, as General MacArthur suggests, it may be due to failures in the long, slender supply line stretching from European Russia across to Manchuria.

That aid might ultimately be forthcoming. It is even possible, too, that Russia herself might enter the conflict rather than see Korea held by the West.

But if that does not happen, then the evidence offered by the Chinese Reds' spring drive strongly suggests that they may never mount a winning offensive against us. Just as we, with present forces, are considered unlikely to roll the Reds back to the Yalu River, so the Chinese, as presently equipped, may prove unable to push us south of our stable Han River line.

Regardless of the accuracy of these figures, we can safely assume that short fishing is big business. It also produces a lot of food. More important, it provides millions of days of badly-needed relaxation.

Sport Fishing Rated As Big Business

TWO magazines, Motor News and Midwest Fisherman, are devoting well-illustrated feature articles this month to the walleye and other sport fishing in the Escanaba area.

The articles were scheduled to appear shortly before the opening of the national convention of the Outdoor Writers Association of America in Escanaba on June 30. The convention, for which the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce made a successful bid last year, is being sought for 1952 by the extremely tourist publicity-minded City of Miami.

Sport fishing is big business. This explains why Miami and other resort areas are anxious to have the outdoor writers visit them and write about their fishing.

According to R. W. Eschmeyer of the Sport Fishing Institute, about 200 million man-days of relaxation are provided annually by sport fishing. The business value of this fishing is about a million dollars.

The estimate that there are 200 million days of sport fishing is based on the belief that the average angler fishes about ten times yearly. There are about 15½ million license buyers. Children under 17 years of age fish free on nearly all waters and certain groups fish without license on some waters. Actually there are probably more than 20 million anglers.

The fishing trip cost is estimated at $5 in costs, including license fee, tackle, bait, travel, boats, etc. For some trips this estimate is much too low, for others it is too high.

Regardless of the accuracy of these figures, we can safely assume that short fishing is big business. It also produces a lot of food. More important, it provides millions of days of badly-needed relaxation.

Volunteer Is Keystone Of Our Military Policy

DESPITE the present emphasis on the draft, recruiting is the most economical and effective means of obtaining military personnel. That is the gist of a recent statement by Major General Thomas J. Hanley, chief of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service. To use his own words: "The volunteer is still, as he always has been, the keystone of United States military policy."

Volunteers have been reenlisting at a rate of four and five to one over draftees. This high rate of reenlistment saves the taxpayers millions of dollars in training costs. In addition, the volunteers' enthusiasm makes them more adaptable, they are quicker to assume responsibility, and almost invariably are more interested in the career aspects of the services.

General Hanley stressed the value of high school graduates to the military forces. It is from among these young people that our future officers and non-commissioned officers will be drawn. And this goes for young women no less than young men. As an example, the WAC alone will need 30,000 officers and enlisted personnel by July of next year. Goals of the WAC will soon be announced. Additional thousands of careers lie in the army and air force medical services, which urgently need nurses, dieticians, and physical and occupational therapists.

The draft is essentially an emergency device. The volunteer constitutes the hard, dependable strength of any first-class army, air force or navy.

Vacation Plans

Come the warmth of May and with it is the hint of summer clime, and you then begin your planning for a big vacation time. You collect yourself some folders and you read the travel ads, and a lot of places beckon to the kids and moms and dads. Then a meeting of your family is called to make a choice, and you pick a spot that causes everybody to rejoice.

Now for once your folks agree on where vacation will be spent and they eagerly await the happy holiday event. There will be some fancy fishing, and some riding horses too, plus some picnics and so many other social things to do. Why, it's bound to be successful when vacation land you roam, and you know you'll be reluctant when you head your auto home.

But your dream is rudely jolted and your eagerness is lost, when you do a little checking on just what your trip will cost. It's apparent that vacationing, like every other thing, is affected by inflation and you can't afford the flying. So you dread the day you'll have to sound the family alarm, and announce you'll spent vacation down on Grandpa's nearby farm.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — General Hoyt Vandenberg, the nation's No. 1 airman, has sounded a private warning during talks inside the Pentagon building that the worst threat to American cities is not from Europe but Siberia.

This is a flat contradiction of General MacArthur's contention that Russia cannot wage war against the United States from Siberia.

"We have heard quite often that the defense of Western Europe is the defense of the United States," Vandenberg warned. "Now that is true in some phases, but it surely isn't true of air power, because from bases in Siberia, the Russians can cover with present Soviet bombers a much greater area than can be covered today from Western Europe."

Undersecretary of Air John McCone, speaking to the same private group, frankly admitted that it would be impossible to prevent enemy airplanes from hitting American cities.

"Our air defense system, even when completed," he said, "will be far from perfect. If an enemy attack is launched against this country, many bombers will be shot down, but a great many will get through."

General Vandenberg, comparing Russian and American air strength, gave an off-the-cuff estimate that the United States is 100-to-20 better at strategic bombing.

"The Russians are building up a fleet of long-range bombers," he reported. "The TU-4, which is the mainstay of their strategic air power, is at present in quite considerable quantities."

RUSSIAN PILOTS ARE GOOD

They are working on their instrument flying. They are working on their night flying. They are working on their bombing," he continued. "Today, I would say as far as relative efficiency between their strategic knowledge and effort and competency with ours, it is about a ratio of 20 to 100. However, I think that is no cause for us to be complacent, because they certainly are working, and they certainly have available to them most of the data on which ours is based."

Commenting on Russian pilots, Vandenberg added: "Individually, they are fine fliers. Temperamentally, they are good airmen. Technically, the Russian air force today has the benefit of a great many of the German scientists who were captured by the Russians and who are now working for them... However, the training of our airmen in their gunnery and their night flying and their blind flying and their ability to bomb through overcasts, as far as we know—and we are reasonably sure—is technically much more competent than the Russians."

Both Vandenberg and McCone warned that the air force must build up to 95 groups, that this goal will not be reached until July, 1952, and that it will take still another year to bring the equipment up to date.

"I think the United States air force today is well trained and carries a helluva wallop," declared Vandenberg. "At the same time, until we get 95 groups or more, I wouldn't want to say that the air force is anywhere near the wallop that the people of the United States ought to demand."

FLOWERS FOR ECONOMY

If any member of the House appropriations committee can squeeze a nickel tighter than GOP Congressman John Taber of New York, it is his opposite number, Democratic Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri.

Cannon has a fierce aversion to extravagance in any form, whether personal or with the taxpayers' money. Committee colleagues were even dubious about sending him flowers while he was in the hospital.

Red China can repeat this kind of offensive if it is willing to face the likelihood that 70,000 or 80,000 casualties will be the consequence. If not, it can either give up in Korea or appeal to the Russians for greater assistance.

Up to now Russian aid has fallen short of what the Chinese would need for a successful offensive. MacArthur's Return May Help Campaign For Taft

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—On the strong recommendation of his friends and admirers in Washington and New York, General Dwight D. Eisenhower has decided against returning to the United States this month. The reason, of course, is the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

Far from wanting to express his own viewpoint publicly at this time, as some have reported, Eisenhower has felt strongly that he should stay out of the dispute. But he had hoped to come back for a few days to preside over the American assembly, which is Eisenhower's pet project, without getting involved.

As president of Columbia university, Eisenhower conceived the idea of bringing together leaders in business, labor, agriculture and other fields to try to reach areas of agreement on some of the big problems confronting America today. The first assembly meets from May 21 to 26 at Arden house on the Hudson river, the magnificent estate given to Columbia university by W. Averell Harriman, assistant to President Truman.

Would Be On Spot

Eisenhower's friends told him that if he came back, he would certainly be called on to testify before the Senate committee investigating the dismissal of General MacArthur and America's Asian policy. Strong pro-MacArthur committee members would have liked nothing better than to put Eisenhower on the spot. He would certainly have been under great pressure both before the committee and by interviewers to take sides.

Quite apart from how this might affect his personal fortunes, it could hardly help him either at home or in Europe in carrying out his difficult assignment as supreme commander of the North Atlantic pact defenses. And Eisenhower can say in all honesty that the pressure of his job in Europe is so great that he cannot afford to take the time necessary to come home even for three or four days.

Changed Ike's Status

It was just a month ago that MacArthur's dismissal was announced. The explosion that followed has altered a great many things, among them the status of Eisenhower both as soldier and as possible presidential candidate.

Among the idolators of MacArthur are those whose resentment and dislike of Ike is almost as great as their veneration for the hero of Bataan. In part this is a reflection of the bitter feud that went on through most of World War II over the priority in men and material as between Europe and the Pacific. In the top secret files in the Pentagon are dozens of scorching MacArthur telegrams demanding more resources in order to speed up and enlarge the Pacific war.

But personality enters in, too. The idea that Eisenhower might be the Republican nominee for president has caused heartburning jealousies among the MacArthur-Asia faction. This has been especially true of certain of MacArthur's highly-placed Republican friends.

The score has been plain enough to read. In every opinion poll taken whether Eisenhower ran as a Republican or a Democrat he was far out ahead of all other candidates. His great personal popularity, translated into political terms, is a phenomenon that no one could miss.

To checkmate Ike was the desire of certain MacArthur worshippers who saw the commander of the vast Normandy invasion over-shadowing the man whom they consider the greatest soldier in all history. They now believe that the chances of a Republican nomination for Ike are slim to being nonexistent and that the possibility of a general on either ticket is slight.

A great deal can happen between now and the national conventions, which are scarcely more than a year away. But in the inmost circle of the MacArthurites, who also happen to be influential Republicans, a sequence of events in approximately the following pattern is anticipated.

May Address Convention
Ardent MacArthurites will keep up the clamor through the year to make him the Republican candidate with this theme noisily stressed by a section of the press. General MacArthur will be invited to address the Republican convention. It will be for him the occasion for drama nearly as great as in his appearance before Congress. In that speech he will put aside the crown. He will tell the convention that no general—no military man—should aspire to a political office; that the civilian must be paramount in the field of politics.

Little imagination is required to see how a tense and emotional convention, generously supplied with supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft, would react to such a speech. The way would presumably be opened without even a feeble challenge for the nomination of Taft.

To accept the candidacy of either party after MacArthur's stirring lecture on the necessity for a civilian president would be difficult or impossible for Ike. At least that is the way it is seen by some very clever, shrewd and calculating men. They have been wrong before, but they do not intend to be wrong this time if they can possibly help it.

Community Banquet At Pine Ridge Great Success

PINE RIDGE—The Pine Ridge school was the scene of a well-prepared Mother and Daughter banquet and program sponsored by the PTA Thursday evening. The events of the evening suggested a Mother's Day theme.

The banquet began at 6:30 with the blessing by Rosemary Constantineau and a song, Thank You God for Everything by Charlotte Leisner. Following the banquet, Mrs. Edith Rosenquist, the Pine Ridge school teacher, gave a short talk on the cooperation and strength of the PTA and community of the PTA and community of Pine Ridge area. The program continued as follows:

Mrs. Rosenquist presented a past president's pin to Mrs. Louis Schaut who has served as the Pine Ridge PTA president for the past year.

The 4-H girls presented the remainder of the program with the following songs:

Joint PTA And Farewell Party

HIAWATHA—The Hiawatha Township PTA met at the Heights school, Wednesday evening, May 9, with Mrs. John Burley presiding. Following reports by secretary, Mrs. James Wieland and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Michaels, the new business consisted of settling place and date for the annual picnic and the election and installation of new officers. They are: Mrs. Joseph Gideon, president; Mrs. Henning Mattson, vice-president; Phyllis McCrea, secretary and Minnie Sakarsky, treasurer.

On adjournment of the business session the meeting took the form of a farewell party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Bernhardt, to whom the recreation chairman, Mrs. Clayton D. Reid, presented a buttoniere and corsage, respectively.

Mr. Bernhardt has been District Home Extension and 4-H Club agent and Mrs. Bernhardt has also been active in local extension and 4-H club work. Both have taken part in other community activities.

Mrs. Reid then introduced Mrs. Henning Mattson, demonstrating salad making, Mrs. Arnold Henrichsen, sewing machine attachments, Phyllis McCrea, upholstering and Mrs. Kelly Christiansen, furniture repairing, all lessons learned at Home Extension project schools.

A comedy skit with Henning Mattson acting a 4-H dairy judge and Agner Dehlin as a club member presenting Clayton D. Reid as Bugs Bunny, in lieu of a calf, afforded the crowd much hilarity.

Mrs. Walter Busch then read a revised version of her 4-H Achievement Day Style Review script, presenting a group of men modeling the winter projects costumes with appropriate accessories. They were Gerald Mullins in Clothing 1, apron and towels; John Walter, Clothing 3, sports costume Walter Bush, complete costume; Joseph Gideon, cotton dress; Robert Micheal in a formal, lace hat, elbow length gloves and a corsage; Lawrence Hambeau, clothing 2, apron and towels.

Mr. Bernhardt acknowledged the commendations and well wishes of friends and co-workers.

Refreshments were served by a male lunch committee, composed of Isral Coty, Agner Dehlin, Russell LaFleur, Lawrence Hambeau and Gerald Mullins at a beautifully decorated table.

Russia's Shipment Of Wheat To India Won't Prevent Famine

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU of India demonstrated extremely poor judgment in the manner in which he manipulated for propaganda purposes the announcement of a shipment of Russian wheat to India last week.

Very dramatically in an address in parliament, Nehru announced that "Russian ships with wheat have started for India." He referred to a purchase of 50,000 tons, a very small portion of India's needs in a period of famine conditions that exist now.

Nehru failed to report to the people of India that the United States has been sending 100,000 tons of wheat per month through regular trade channels, a total of 411,000 tons in the first four months of the year. And it was an hour after his announcement of the Russian wheat shipment that Nehru reported Indian acceptance of proposed American terms for much larger shipments of wheat.

The manner in which Nehru deliberately played up the Russian shipment was bad judgment for the Indian prime minister because by his own admission, the United States is the main reliance of India to avert famine. No other country—including Russia—has the supply of wheat in sufficient quantities to save the people of India from great suffering through starvation.

It is unfortunate that so much delay has been encountered in the American plan to increase the shipments of grain to India. The proposal has been debated in Congress for months. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the United States has been shipping far greater quantities of wheat to India than Russia has—by a margin of 10 to 1—Nehru's announcement gave the impression to the people of India that hope for starvation comes from Russia, not America.

Military Stalemate At Hand In Korea

GEneral RIDGWAY is not yet claiming that the Chinese Reds' spring offensive has been finally crushed. He declares only that we scored a great victory in turning back its first phase.

Since that drive was blunted, reconnaissance reports a new build-up of Communist strength. It is logical to expect another try, inasmuch as the initial attack was of relatively short duration and can hardly classify as an all-out bid to throw us into the sea.

Yet on this we might be fooled. UN forces inflicted more than 70,000 casualties on the Red Chinese in their abortive attempt to recapture Seoul. No army on earth can sustain losses of that size without feeling the hurt.

There are scattered signs that the Reds might not undertake a second phase of their spring campaign. The siege of Seoul has been lifted. Chinese are reported once more pulling back to or beyond the much-crossed 38th parallel. Red prisoners tell their captors "the war is over."

All this may be designed to deceive, and American commanders are not trusting such signs. But it is at least a possibility that the Chinese Communists have had all they want in the way of punishment for some time.

It may even be occurring to Chinese leaders that there is no good point in any further offensive now or ever in Korea, so long as it must be conducted as was their spring drive. For that campaign featured no important use of armor. It made the Chinese soldier a human battering ram, and when it was over his broken body lay in a Korean ditch.

Red China can repeat this kind of offense if it is willing to face the likelihood that 70,000 or 80,000 casualties will be the consequence. If not, it can either give up in Korea or appeal to the Russians for greater assistance.

Up to now Russian aid has fallen short of what the Chinese would need for a successful offensive. This may be deliberate on the Kremlin's part, to keep China embroiled with UN forces and thus more dependent on the Soviet Union. Or, as General MacArthur suggests, it may be due to failures in the long, slender supply line stretching from European Russia across to Manchuria.

Cannon has a fierce aversion to extravagance in any form, whether personal or with the taxpayers' money. Committee colleagues were even dubious about sending him flowers while he was in the hospital recently.

However, the Missourian was properly thankful when he returned to work.

"If you're determined to waste money, you might as well waste it on me," Cannon told his committee. "Besides, I made good use of those flowers by passing them around. It put me in solid with the people."

That aid might ultimately be forthcoming. It is even possible, too, that Russia herself might enter the conflict rather than see Korea held by the West.

But if that does not happen, then the evidence offered by the Chinese Reds' spring drive strongly suggests that they may never mount a winning offensive against us. Just as we, with present forces, are considered unlikely to roll the Reds back to the Yalu River, so the Chinese, as presently equipped, may prove unable to push us south on our stable Han River line.

Unless new elements are soon introduced, a military stalemate now seems to be at hand.

Sport Fishing Rated As Big Business

TWO magazines, Motor News and Midwest Fisherman, are devoting well-illustrated feature articles this month to the walleye and other sport fishing in the Escanaba area.

The articles were scheduled to appear shortly before the opening of the national convention of the Outdoor Writers Association of America in Escanaba on June 30. The convention, for which the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce made a successful bid last year, is being sought for 1952 by the extremely tourist publicity-minded City of Miami.

Sport fishing is big business. This explains why Miami and other resort areas are anxious to have the outdoor writers visit them and write about their fishing.

According to R. W. Eschmeyer of the Sport Fishing Institute, about 200 million-man days of relaxation are provided annually by sport fishing. The business value of this fishing is about a million dollars.

The estimate that there are 200 million man-days of sport fishing is based on the belief that the average angler fishes about ten times yearly. There are about 15½ million license buyers. Children under 17 years of age fish free on nearly all waters and certain groups fish without license on some waters. Actually there are probably more than 20 million anglers.

The fishing trip cost is estimated at $5 in costs, including license fee, tackle, bait, travel, boats, etc. For some trips this estimate is much too low, for others it is too high.

Regardless of the accuracy of these figures, we can safely assume that short fishing is big business. It also produces a lot of food. More important, it provides millions of days of badly-needed relaxation.

Volunteer Is Keystone Of Our Military Policy

DESPITE the present emphasis on the draft, recruiting is the most economical and effective means of obtaining military personnel. That is the gist of a recent statement by Major General Thomas J. Hanley, chief of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service. To use his own words, "The volunteer is still, as he always has been, the keystone of United States military policy."

Volunteers have been reenlisting at a rate of four and five to one over draftees. This high rate of reenlistment saves the taxpayers millions of dollars in training costs. In addition, the volunteers' enthusiasm makes them more adaptable, they are quicker to assume responsibility, and almost invariably are more interested in the career aspects of the services.

General Hanley stressed the value of high school graduates to the military forces. It is from among these young people that our future officers and non-commissioned officers will be drawn. And this goes for young women no less than young men. As an example, the WAC alone will need 30,000 officers and enlisted personnel by July of next year. Goals of the WAC will soon be announced. Additional thousands of careers lie in the army and air force medical services, which urgently need nurses, dieticians, and physical and occupational therapists.

The draft is essentially an emergency device. The volunteer constitutes the hard, dependable strength of any first-class army, air force or navy.

Vacation Plans

By Gordon Martin

Comes the warmth of May and with it is the hint of summer clime, and you then begin your planning for a big vacation time. You collect yourself some folders and you read the travel ads, and a lot of places beckon to the kids and moms and dads. Now for once your folks agree on where vacation will be spent and they eagerly await the happy holiday event. There will be some fancy fishing, and some riding horses too, plus some picnics and so many other social things to do. Why, it's bound to be successful when you head your auto home, and you know you'll be reluctant when you

But your dream is rudely jolted and your eagerness is lost, when you do a little checking on just what your trip will cost. It's apparent that vacationing, like every other thing, is affected by inflation and you can't afford the flying. So you dread the day you'll have to sound the family alarm, and announce you'll spend vacation down on Grandpa's nearby farm.

MARTIN

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — General Hoyt Vandenberg, the nation's No. 1 airman, has sounded a private warning during talks inside the Pentagon building that the worst threat to American cities is not from Europe but Siberia.

This is a flat contradiction of General MacArthur's contention that Russia cannot wage war against the United States from Siberia.

"We have heard quite often that the defense of Western Europe is the defense of the United States," Vandenberg warned. "Now that is true in some phases, but it surely isn't true of air power, because from bases in Siberia, the Russians can cover with present Soviet bombers a much greater area than can be covered today from Western Europe."

Undersecretary of Air John McCone, speaking to the same private group, frankly admitted that it would be impossible to prevent enemy airplanes from hitting American cities.

"Our air defense system, even when completed," he said, "will be far from perfect. If an enemy attack is launched against this country, many bombers will be shot down, but a great many will get through."

General Vandenberg, comparing Russian and American air strength, gave an off-the-cuff estimate that the United States is 100-to-20 better at strategic bombing.

"The Russians are building up a fleet of long-range bombers," he reported. "The TU-4, which is the mainstay of their strategic air power, is at present in quite considerable quantities.

RUSSIAN PILOTS ARE GOOD

They are working on their instrument flying. They are working on their night flying. They are working on their bombing," he continued. "Today, I would say as far as relative efficiency between their strategic knowledge and effort and competency with ours, it is about a ratio of 20 to 100. However, I think that is no cause for us to be complacent, because they certainly are working, and they certainly have available to them most of the data on which ours is based."

Commenting on Russian pilots, Vandenberg added: "Individually, they are fine fliers. Temperamentally, they are good airmen. Technically, the Russian air force of today has the benefit of a great many of the German scientists who were captured by the Russians and who are now working for them... However, the training of our airmen in their gunnery and their night flying and their blind flying and their ability to bomb through overcasts, as far as we know—and we are reasonably sure—is technically much more competent than the Russians."

All this may be designed to deceive, and American commanders are not trusting such signs. But it is at least a possibility that the Chinese Communists have had all they want in the way of punishment for some time.

It may even be occurring to Chinese leaders that there is no good point in any further offensive now or ever in Korea, so long as it must be conducted as was their spring drive. Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

London—Rudolf Hess broke away from Germany as a hopeful messenger of peace, it became known today, with the British disclosure that his unauthorized flight out of the Reich was aimed at a rendezvous in Scotland with his old English sports acquaintance, the Duke of Hamilton.

Escanaba—Bids will be awarded on the work of drilling wells for the city's new water supply system at the city council meeting tonight. Low bidders are the Layne Northwest company of Milwaukee and the McCarthy Well Drilling company of Minneapolis.

Gladstone—Charles C. Strickland, principal of Gladstone high school, was selected as president of the Michigan State Teachers Retirement Fund board, at a reorganization meeting held at Lansing Monday and Tuesday.

Manistique—In a bill introduced in the legislature by Rep. Anderson of Northport, fast ferry service from Northport to Manistique operated by the state is proposed.

The idea is to relieve the bottleneck at the Straits and to provide a scenic water route for tourists with Northport as the southern terminus and Manistique as the northern terminus.

Thus, for example, there is a statue on a busy corner in the Capitol to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, due largely to the interest and activity of the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Memorial Association; but there is no industrial leader, as such, honored by a major memorial in Washington. Yet there is a very large memorial—and none has questioned the outstanding quality of his leadership—to the late Samuel Gompers, for many years the president of the American Federation of Labor.

How does this happen?

Well, the answer, while it would appear simple, is hardly adequate.

Actually, experience shows that in most instances memorial statues do not rise spontaneously but through pressure of one kind or another.

Thus, for example, there is a statue on a busy corner in the Capitol to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, due largely to the interest and activity of the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Memorial Association; but there is no industrial leader, as such, honored by a major memorial in Washington. Yet there is a very large memorial—and none has questioned the outstanding quality of his leadership—to the late Samuel Gompers, for many years the president of the American Federation of Labor.

The greatest single group of statues in Washington is composed of soldiers and sailors of the War Between the States. All save Albert Pike fought on the Union side. These include Farragut, Garfield, Grant, Hancock, Meade, Dupont, McClellan, McPherson, Rawlins, Sheridan, Sherman, Stephenson, Thomas, and Logan.

In addition to Washington, Revolutionary War soldiers include Greene, Kosciuszko, Lafayette, Von Steuben, Pulaski, and Rochambeau.

MacArthur's Return May Help Campaign For Taft

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—On the strong recommendation of his friends and admirers in Washington and New York, General Dwight D. Eisenhower has decided against returning to the United States this month. The reason, of course, is the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

Far from wanting to express his own viewpoint publicly at this time, as some have reported, Eisenhower has felt strongly that he should stay out of the dispute. But he had hoped to come back for a few days to preside over the American assembly, which is Eisenhower's pet project, without getting involved.

As president of Columbia university, Eisenhower conceived the idea of bringing together leaders in business, labor, agriculture and other fields to try to reach areas of agreement on some of the big problems confronting America today. The first assembly meets from May 21 to 26 at Arden house on the Hudson river, the magnificent estate given to Columbia university by W. Averell Harriman, assistant to President Truman.

Would Be On Spot

Eisenhower's friends told him that if he came back, he would certainly be called on to testify before the Senate committee investigating the dismissal of General MacArthur and America's Asian policy. Strong pro-MacArthur committee members would have liked nothing better than to put Eisenhower on the spot. He would certainly have been under great pressure both before the committee and by interviewers to take sides.

Quite apart from how this might affect his personal fortunes, it could hardly help him either at home or in Europe in carrying out his difficult assignment as supreme commander of the North Atlantic pact defenses. And Eisenhower can say in all honesty that the pressure of his job in Europe is so great that he cannot afford to take the time necessary to come home even for three or four days.

Changed Ike's Status

It was just a month ago that MacArthur's dismissal was announced. The explosion that followed has altered a great many things, among them the status of Eisenhower both as soldier and as possible presidential candidate.

Among the idolators of MacArthur are those whose resentment and dislike of Ike is almost as great as their veneration for the hero of Bataan. In part this is a reflection of the bitter feud that went on through most of World War II over the priority in men and material as between Europe and the Pacific. In the top secret files in the Pentagon are dozens of searching MacArthur telegrams demanding more resources in order to speed up and enlarge the Pacific war.

But personality enters in, too. The idea that Eisenhower might be the Republican nominee for president has caused heartburning jealousies among the MacArthur-Asia faction. This has been especially true of certain of MacArthur's highly-placed Republican friends.

The score has been plain enough to read. In every opinion poll taken whether Eisenhower ran as a Republican or a Democrat he was far out ahead of all other candidates. His great personal popularity, translated into political terms, is a phenomenon that no one could miss.

To checkmate Ike was the desire of certain MacArthur hero-worshippers who saw the commander of the vast Normandy invasion overshadowing the man whom they consider the greatest soldier in all history. They now believe that the chances of a Republican nomination for Ike are slim to being nonexistent and that the possibility of a general on either ticket is slight.

A great deal can happen between now and the national conventions, which are scarcely more than a year away. But in the innermost circle of the MacArthuriotes, who also happen to be influential Republicans, a sequence of events in approximately the following pattern is anticipated.

May Address Convention

General MacArthuriotes will keep up the clamor through the year to make him the Republican candidate with this theme noisily stressed by a section of the press. General MacArthur will be invited to address the Republican convention. It will be for him the occasion for drama nearly as great as in his appearance before Congress. In that speech he will put aside the crown. He will tell the convention that no general—no military man—should aspire to a political office; that the civilian must be paramount in the field of politics.

Little imagination is required to see how a tense and emotional convention, generously supplied with supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft, would react to such a speech. The way would presumably be opened without even a feeble challenge for the nomination of Taft.

To accept the candidacy of either party after MacArthur's stirring lecture on the necessity for a civilian president would be difficult or impossible for Ike. At least that is the way it is seen by some very clever, shrewd and calculating men. They have been wrong before, but they do not intend to be wrong this time if they can possibly help it.

She recited it very emphatically to bring out its full meaning. Mrs. Bauer also read the story, "Mother" by Ruth Sawyer.

Mrs. Rosenuquist presented a past president's pin to Mrs. Louis Schaut who has served as the Pine Ridge PTA president for the past year.

Joint PTA And Farewell Party

HIAWATHA — The Hiawatha Township PTA met at the Heights school, Wednesday evening, May 9, with Mrs. John Burley presiding. Following reports by secretary, Mrs. James Wieland and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Michaels, the new business consisted of settling place and date for the annual picnic and the election and installation of new officers. They are: Mrs. Joseph Gideon, president; Mrs. Henning Mattson, vice-president; Phyllis McCrea, treasurer; and Minnie Sakarsky, treasurer.

On adjournment of the business session the meeting took the form of a farewell party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Bernhardt, to whom the recreation chairman, Mrs. Clayton D. Reid, presented a buttoniere and corsage, respectively.

Mr. Bernhardt has been District Home Extension and 4-H Club agent and Mrs. Bernhardt has also been active in local extension and 4-H club work. Both have taken part in other community activities.

Mrs. Reid then introduced Mrs. Henning Mattson, demonstrating salad making. Mrs. Arnold Henrichsen, sewing machine attachments, Phyllis McCrea, upholstering and Mrs. Kelly Christiansen, furniture repairing, all lessons learned at Home Extension projects.

A comedy skit with Henning Mattson acting a 4-H dairy project judge and Agner Dehlin as a club member presenting Clayton D. Reid as Bugs Bunny, in lieu of a calf, afforded the crowd much hilarity.

Mrs. Walter Busch then read a revised version of her 4-H Achievement Day Style Review script, presenting a group of men modeling the winter projects costumes with appropriate accessories. They were Gerald Mullins in Clothing 1, apron and towels; John Burley, Clothing 3, sports costume; Walter Bush, complete costume; Joseph Gideon, cotton dress; Robert Micheal in a formal, lacy hat, elbow length gloves and a corsage; Lawrence Hambeau, Furniture.

Refreshments were served by a male lunch committee, composed of Irial Coty, Agner Dehlin, Russell Lafleur, Lawrence Hambeau and Gerald Mullins at a beautifully decorated table.

Rita Sheds Aly, Asks 3 Million To Raise Baby

NEW YORK—(P)—Rita Hayworth intends to divorce Aly Khan and ask him for $3,000,000 trust fund to raise their daughter, Yasmin, as a Moslem.

The film actress's attorney, Bartley Crum, last night revealed her decision to dissolve the two-year-old marriage.

Crum said Aly has indicated he will not stand in the way of the glamorous redhead's divorce plans.

As for the trust fund for 16-month-old Yasmin, Crum said he expects little opposition to this request.

"I am dealing directly with the prince on arrangements for the divorce and expect to go to Paris to talk to him personally," Crum declared.

Miss Hayworth—a Brooklyn girl who became Aly's princess via Hollywood—is now establishing residence at Glenbrook, Nev., on Lake Tahoe.

Miss Hayworth was born a Roman Catholic. She and Aly were married on the French Riviera in a civil ceremony May 27, 1949. A Moslem wedding ceremony was performed the next day.

Yasmin was born to the 32-year-old actress on Dec. 28, 1949, in Lausanne, Switzerland.

With her at Lake Tahoe are both Yasmin and her other daughter, Rebecca, 6, by a former marriage with Orson Welles.

Rollins Presidency Claimed By 2 Men

WINTER PARK, Fla.—(P)—Rollins college has quieted down on the surface.

But two men are claiming the presidency and more fireworks may be touched off before the dust is finally settled.

Dr. Paul A. Wagner, 33-year-old president, was fired by a group of 11 trustees after a two-month wrangle. It began when he revealed that intercollegiate athletics and 23 of 76 professors were being dropped because of dwindling finances.

Dr. Hugh F. McLean, 42, professor of art, was named new president by the trustees Sunday night, but Dr. Wagner refused to step down. The youthful Wagner spent yesterday in the president's office and Dr. McLean occupied his own office.

Paraplegic Veterans Get Special Parking

LANSING—(P)—A bill giving paraplegic veterans special parking privileges was signed into law by Governor Williams yesterday.

The measure will permit the issuance of certificates to veterans qualified to receive specially designed automobiles from the federal government. The certificate will permit them parking privileges but not permit the blocking of fire lanes and heavy traffic in rush hours.

Two other measures signed will require township boards to hold at least one regular meeting every three months, and require boards of review in townships over 10,000 population to hold at least one evening meeting.

Grain-For-India Bill Gets Push

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senators hoped to take action today on the controversial grain-for-India proposal by passing a compromise bill for 2,000,000 tons of food on a straight loan basis.

President Truman asked Congress to send relief grains estimated at $190,000,000 to India as a gift.

The food, largely wheat, is needed to meet famine and starvation reported in some parts of India.

Smith and Senator Gillette (D-Ia), floor manager for the bill, led off with speeches for its quick passage in the Senate yesterday.

Both conceded that the government of India was open to criticism but added that no reason for allowing millions of people to starve, when the U. S. has food available. Some opposition to the bill has been based on India's hands-off attitude on Korea.

John Maragon Loses Fight To Set Aside His Prison Sentence

WASHINGTON—(P)—John F. Maragon, onetime familiar figure around the White House has lost a move to have the supreme court say he shouldn't go to jail.

By an 8-to-0 vote the high court yesterday refused to consider an appeal filed by Maragon. In it he asked the tribunal to overturn his conviction on charges that he lied to Senators investigating the payment of fees by business men seeking government contracts.

Maragon used to be a friend of Maj. Gen. Harry M. Vaughan, president Truman's military aide. He was convicted of perjury in U. S. district court here more than a year ago.

MacArthur Definitely White House Prospect, Sen. Wiley Declares

MILWAUKEE—(P)—General Douglas MacArthur is a definite possibility as Republican candidate for president next year in the eyes of Senator Wiley (R-Wis.).

"It's too early to pick candidates now," Wiley told an interviewer yesterday, "but here is a great man who is a definite possibility."

"We Republicans want to win in 1952, but we must deserve victory. We must not pick a man of limited ability or a man who appeals only to a segment of American voters."

Wiley, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said he was not referring to anyone in particular in that latter remark.

Grand Rapids Jail Break Nipped By Tip

GRAND RAPIDS—(P)—Sheriff's men nipped an incipient jail break at the Kent county jail last night.

Eight men, said to have taken part in the plot, were in solitary confinement today.

A "tip" led to an investigation and disclosure of the planned break, Deputy Sheriff Arnold O. Pigorsch reported.

Officers found that the bars of several cells in the upper cell block were partially sawed. Soap had been rubbed over the cuts for concealment.

Three sawblades were found hidden in a mattress of one cell, along with twine which officers said evidently was meant to be used to bind the turnkey.

Pigorsch said the sawblades apparently had been smuggled to the prisoners.

Guided To Shelters

BALTIMORE—(P)—Signs pointing to the nearest air raid shelter are going up soon in downtown Baltimore, civil defense director Paul L. Holland said today.

Marshall Gets Homage Of VMI

LEXINGTON, Va.—(P)—Five-star General George C. Marshall—"Good, old George" to the classmates of 1901 who greeted him—stepped out of the great debate today to accept the homage of Virginia Military Institute.

The defense secretary's alma mater was observing Marshall day and with full-dress military honors dedicated a barracks entrance as the George Catlett Marshall arch.

Marshall's name on the archway was in good company. Two older arches are named for George Washington and Stonewall Jackson.

Virginia's government, too, paid honor to the 70-year-old Marshall. Governor John S. Battle was on hand to present him with the state's distinguished service medal in parade ground ceremonies before the full corps of cadets. Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch also was here to make the arch dedication address honoring his close friend.

"George" attended a get-together reunion dinner of the class of '01. A dozen members of the class were waiting when Marshall showed up after a plane and auto trip from Washington.

And before the class of 01 sat down for dinner, a considerate classmate suggested:

"George needs a toddy, get George a toddy."

Chinese Reds May Be Ready To Put Out Peace Feeler

Committee members said the boost would cost the state $2,500,000 a year.

"That is not too much money for the old folks who are feeling the pinch of the rising cost of living," Goulette said.

Administration senators said they hope in this way to overcome the tremendous impact they conceded MacArthur made on the American people by his address to Congress and subsequent testimony.

MacArthur told Congress it was his understanding his proposals for blocking China, removal of restrictions on air operations over Manchuria and use of Chinese Nationalist troops "have been fully shared in the past by practically every military leader concerned with the Korean campaign, including our own joint chiefs of staff."

The deposed Pacific commander stuck to that statement. Marshall said these were only some of the recommendations the joint chiefs made last Jan. 12, and that they were to be carried out only if United Nations troops were forced out of Korea or into a last stand-beachhead.

Georgia Prison Camp Is Air-Conditioned

NEWNAN, Ga.—(P)—An air-conditioned prison camp—called the first in the nation—was dedicated here yesterday.

The camp also boasts a television set and venetian blinds.

State leaders praised Warden Ben Lambert and Coweta county commissioners for the modern, clean camp as they inspected the brick and concrete building housing 100 Negro inmates.

Attorney General Eugene Cook began collecting pictures of the camp to aid in his fight against charges that Georgia operates a barbaric, out-moded prison system.

Chairman L. C. Burns of the State Board of Corrections said it was the first air conditioned prison camp in the nation.

Homecoming Korean Veterans Get Noisy Welcome From Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—More than 1,400 army veterans of the Korean war arrived today (2 p.m. EST) aboard the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin.

They are the first combat troops returned under the army rotation program to land at San Francisco. A shipload of returning marines docked here last night.

Chairman L. C. Burns of the State Board of Corrections said it was the first air conditioned prison camp in the nation.

Eight men, said to have taken part in the plot, were in solitary confinement today.

A "tip" led to an investigation and disclosure of the planned break, Deputy Sheriff Arnold O. Pigorsch reported.

High Court Upsets Hancock Conviction

LANSING—(P)—The state supreme court yesterday upset the criminal convictions of two men, both sentenced on morals charges. The court freed Forest Wall sentenced to life imprisonment from Mt. Clemens July 10, 1942, on a charge involving a minor boy. It reversed the rape conviction of Raymond Bastien of Hancock, convicted Feb. 26, 1948.

The court said the trial court committed prejudicial error by refusing to admit testimony concerning the character of the 15-year-old girl Bastien was accused of raping. This court might have influenced the jury's estimate of her credibility.

Kiwanis Enjoy Evening Program

Jesse W. Pomazal, electrical engineer of the Harnischfeger corporation entertained members of the Kiwanis club with a program of magic at a dinner meeting at the House of Ludington last night.

Six new members were inducted by the Kiwanis club last night with James H. Jackson conducting the ceremony and giving a talk on the history and objectives of the service club. New members are Dr. William Jensen, Michael Farrell, Kenneth Buckland, Robert B. Glidden, William J. Winkler and Jesse W. Pomazal.

The defense secretary's alma mater was observing Marshall day and with full-dress military honors dedicated a barracks entrance as the George Catlett Marshall arch.

Increase In Old Age Assistance Rejected In Lansing, 48 To 43

LANSING—(P)—The house today turned down a determined effort to increase monthly old age assistance payments.

Rep. James Goulette (R-Iron Mountain) attempted to attach the boost to a bill tightening up welfare procedure to prevent "chiseling."

The increase of ordinary assistance from a maximum of $60 to $70 a month and assistance to aged persons in hospitals from $80 to $90 a month was defeated on a 48-to-43 vote.

A small group of Republicans joined Democrats to vote in favor of the increase in opposition to members of the ways and means committee.

Committee members said the boost would cost the state $2,500,000 a year.

"That is not too much money for the old folks who are feeling the pinch of the rising cost of living," Goulette said.

5. Materials control—Allocation of materials for both defense and military needs, with production of luxuries limited to what is left over.

6. Strengthening and continuation of direct controls.

In the future, Johnston said, "Basic price policy... will require greater absorption of cost increases."

MacArthur told Congress it was his understanding his proposals for blocking China, removal of restrictions on air operations over Manchuria and use of Chinese Nationalist troops "have been fully shared in the past by practically every military leader concerned with the Korean campaign, including our own joint chiefs of staff."

The deposed Pacific commander stuck to that statement. Marshall said these were only some of the recommendations the joint chiefs made last Jan. 12, and that they were to be carried out only if United Nations troops were forced out of Korea or into a last stand-beachhead.

Anderson said Gulembo admitted taking the purse and the woman's automobile, and that an armed robbery warrant had been issued against him.

Mrs. Glen, 33, was found beside the road and is in serious condition at a hospital here.

Witnesses told the sheriff that the woman gave Gulembo a ride from a restaurant when he told her his truck was stalled and asked her to take him to his home on the outskirts of town.

FOLKS LIVING NEAR the corner of Knoxville and West Armstrong in Peoria, Illinois, know and like Jim Carver, their neighborhood Standard Oil dealer. They value the excellent service of this Independent businessman. Near where you live, too, a man like Jim Carver operates a Standard Oil station and welcomes you to the same kind of service and products they depend on in Peoria.

HIS SERVICE TO YOU

HELPS YOU BOTH "GO PLACES'

FARMERS, DOCTORS, housewives, defense workers, visiting nurses—all kinds of citizens—people like you—on their way down Knoxville Avenue, stop in at Carver's. At that busy spot he runs an important enterprise in Peoria, his Standard Oil station.

The gas and oil that Jim Carver sells you, and the service he offers, are vital to his community and its activities. You probably couldn't name another businessman who is more directly concerned with helping you go places...to work, on calls, to make deliveries, to shop, to have fun.

Jim Carver is an independent businessman—so are the many thousands of other Standard Oil dealers.

Like them he wanted to be his own boss. That's why he made a considerable financial investment in his own business. But he knows, and he's glad, that his real bosses are his hundreds of customers.

He works hard to service cars right and help keep them in good running order. But he finds time for community interests, for being a good citizen, and a good family man. And a good neighbor.

Jim Carver and thousands of others who operate under Standard Oil's Torch and Oval sign are mainstays of their communities. Their success depends on keeping you going places.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY

Three of the people who help keep Jim Carver going

ALBERT S. VAVREK, one of Standard Oil's 46,700 employees, works at our Whiting, Indiana, refinery. Since World War II, the petroleum industry has increased its domestic crude production by almost 25%. Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies now put 47% more crude oil through their refineries than in 1945. And each of our employees is backed by an average investment of $31,400 in tools and equipment to do the job.

MRS. NELSON JOYNER, JR., of Saginaw, Michigan, is one of the more than 118,000 owners of Standard Oil. No one person owns so much as 1% of our stock, and no institutional owner has so much as 4%. The modern tools that enable our employees to make products for our dealers and for you are made possible by the investment of our owners. Dividends have been paid on Standard Oil stock for 58 consecutive years.

DWAYNE N. SCHULTZ of Peoria, Illinois is a salesman for a farm implement company and one of the millions of Standard Oil customers who use their cars for business and pleasure, and who find it an economical form of transportation. Gasoline now sells at about the same price, excluding taxes, as in 1925, yet on a performance basis it is worth 50% more. Standard Oil's higher production means lower prices and better quality.

The beauties of Mexico, the native customs and the history of the land "South of the Border" were described to the members of the Escanaba Lions club and their wives at a Mother's Day program Monday night at the Sherman hotel by Malina Beauchamp, who recently returned from 15 years as a teacher in Mexico.

Miss Beauchamp described Mexico as a land of great beauty and culture, modern and progressive. The Mexican people are extremely friendly, she said.

The speaker reviewed the history of old Mexico from the Aztec civilization with its pagan customs through the period of the Spanish conquest to modern times.

"Mexico is particularly attractive to American tourists because of the favorable rate of exchange," she said. "In relationship to the American dollar, prices are extremely low and tourists are permitted to take out of the country $500 in Mexican merchandise without duty," she said.

Miss Beauchamp was attired in native Mexican dress and displayed numerous souvenirs of Mexican art. She demonstrated typical Mexican dances to the delight and enjoyment of an appreciative audience.

The speaker described some of the native Mexican celebrations, particularly the Mexican observances of the Christmas season.

Miss Beauchamp is visiting in Escanaba before beginning a trip to South America, where she expects to visit the capital cities of each of the South American republics.

Peace Depends On Individual, Says Club Leader

By MARTHA COLE

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—The national president of Women's Clubs said that the hope for an everlasting peace depends ultimately upon the fabric of everyday, decent living.

Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton of Red Oak, Iowa, the leader of 750,000 women in Women's clubs throughout the nation, said women had a tremendous responsibility.

"It is through women, as the mothers in the home and the teachers in the schools, that are transmitted the basic ideas, attitudes, sense of values, moral credos and understanding of what is the American way of life," she said.

She called for a renewed faith in the freedom we already have in the keynote address of the opening session of the 60th annual convention of the general federation of women's clubs here today.

Home Is Nucleus

America can build its strength, she said, by developing its military might, cooperating with other free nations, expanding its information program to countries behind the iron curtain, getting everyone to participate in the civil defense program, and developing a heightened sense of responsibility toward the community in every individual.

"As women, our work begins in the home and there is not one of us who is not doing her part to strengthen family life; keep its foundations secure; and extend its influence into the community," she said.

The same ideas were expressed by an Indian woman, the American mother of 1950, at the convention. She told reporters that the American Indians are increasing in numbers so that their population now is 420,000.

Look at me—I'm helping that population growth," said Mrs. Henry Roe-Cloud of West Linn, Oregon. "I have four daughters, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14, 3/8 yards of 39-inch.

For this pattern, send 30c in COINS, your name, address, size desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Escanaba Daily Press, 372 West Quincy St., Chicago 6, Ill.

You'll like the many interesting sewing suggestions contained in the Spring and Summer FASHION. Sew-simple styles, special features; gift patterns printed inside the book. Send 25 cents today for your copy.

I just represented a group of grand women over the nation, who represent the best in American life," she explained it.

The family is the most democratic unit in America. Unless we have successful families, we can't have a successful nation."

What clubwomen can do in the national defense program will be discussed in the national defense forum tonight.

Indonesia Sells Rubber To Reds

Trade Kept Up To Get Needed Goods

JAKARTA, Indonesia—(AP)—Indonesia said flatly she intends to continue selling rubber to any country—including Red China—that can send her goods he badly needs.

The stand of this major rubber producer—a member of the United Nations—was expressed by foreign office spokesman Zirim Zaino. He added, however, that Britain's decision Thursday to ban rubber exports to Communist China probably will be discussed soon by the Indonesian cabinet.

Last Monday, Foreign Minister Achmad Soebardjo declared here that Indonesia would "sell to the devil if this would serve the people's interests."

In Singapore, there were reports today that the Singapore and Malayan governments likely will allow Britain's action in placing an embargo on rubber exports to the Communists in China.

Dr. Zain, head of the economic section of the foreign affairs ministry here, said Indonesia does not want to anger the western world, at the young nation sorely needs food and capital goods to get her ailing economy in shape.

Hollywood Salutes Film Stars Of Past

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The film capital dipped into the past last night with a movie premiere to salute the stars of the silent era.

Hollywood, which is noted for its bad memory, did an about face by honoring the faded film personalities "for the pleasure you have brought to millions the world over." The event, backed by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, had all the trappings of a blarney premiere.

Some of today's start were there too—such as Joel McCrea, Richard Conte, Nancy Guild, Chill Wills, Mona Freeman and Alexis Smith.

But the guest causing the most commotion were the magic personalities of another era. Francis X. Bushman, heartbeat of the silent era and now a radio actor, looked dashing as he escorted starlet Piper Laurie. Betty Blythe, also in radio now, looked younger than her years.

Elmo Lincoln, present day bit player, was as strapping as the days he played the screen's first Tarzan. Julia Faye, longtime Cecil B. DeMille star, and still a player in films, ran down the aisle for her citation.

Home In Sweden Heated By Cows

Body Heat Piped To 5-Room House

LUND, Sweden—(AP)—How many cows does it take to heat a house? Eighteen bosses keep one farmer's family cozy all winter—from a distance—at a state-sponsored model near this village in Southern Sweden.

The cows give milk too. They don't know it, but while they relax, their body heat is collected and piped 40 yards to the farmhouse where it keeps five rooms nice and warm.

Engineer Marten Blomquist started the experiment two and one-half years ago for a Swedish state research committee for farmyard workers. He said it works fine.

The old timers, wearing their best finery, arrived at the academy award theater in studio limousines and were profusely photographed and interviewed. They all seemed to enjoy their big night. As one of them, Heine Conklin, said:

"If only we could get a reception like this from the casting office."

Six Children Tear Up $37 In Handbag

MALDEN, Miss.—(AP)—It's only money.

So six children tore up $37 worth and tossed it to the winds. The money belonged to Miss Martha C. Amraut, 24. She stopped to tie the shoe of two-year old Dorothy Schultz. Her bus came along and she ran for it, forgetting her handbag on the sidewalk.

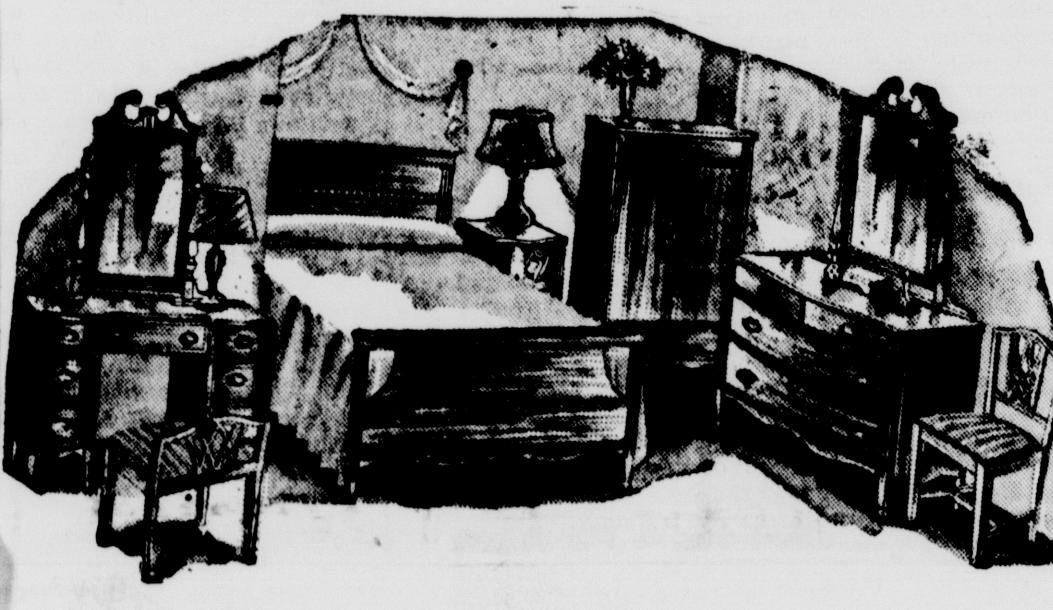

Little Dorothy and five other children, the oldest five years old, opened the bag, took out the money and proceeded to treat it like it just went out of style. A neighborhood search party recovered parts of $35.

Dog's Taste For Ripe Fish Started Rescue

A dog's penchant for overripe fish, the kind that would make any self-respecting glue factory worker hold his nose, started the chain of circumstances which led to the rescue of Walter Deneau and his daughter, Mary, and son, Phillip, from their overturned boat in the waters of Bay de Nocquet northeast of Kipling late Sunday afternoon, it is disclosed.

The William Kleins were guests of the Fred Schrams Sunday at the Schram cottage on the bay

Patrick Peterson, Manitowoc Girl Are United In Marriage

Patrick H. Peterson, son of Herbert Peterson, Valders, Wis., formerly of Gladstone, and Miss Dorothy Kleiber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton J. Kleiber, Route 1, Manitowoc, were united in marriage at 9 Saturday, May 5, in St. Joseph's Catholic church at Alverno.

The bride selected a candle-light satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves. The small Peter Pan collar was covered with lace. The same lace formed a full bib on the bodice front and was repeated in the back. The gathered skirt fell into a full court train and her silk illusion fingertip length veil was secured to a satin cloche. She carried a hand bouquet of cream colored roses and white sweet peas, and wore rose clusters in her hair.

Miss Monica Kleiber and Miss Barbara Peterson wore similar gowns in yellow. They carried hand bouquets of yellow roses and white sweet peas and wore rose clusters as headpieces.

Harold Grimm of Green Bay, the groom's cousin, was best man. The groomsmen were Benedict Kleiber and Bernard Peterson, and the ushers were Richard Kleiber and Michael Brennan.

The bride's mother chose a grey suit dress for her daughter's wedding. With it, she wore white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Dinner was held at Ouker's at Silver Lake followed by a reception for 300.

Following a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan the couple are making their home in Manitowoc.

Attending the wedding from Gladstone were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cole, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cole and Bonnie and Dickie and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Caron.

Junior Baseball Gets Under Way

Gordon Haga Issues Call For Players

The first call for players for the American Legion Junior baseball team which will be formed again in Gladstone this season is made by Gordon Haga and they are asked to report to the bayshore diamond Wednesday night at 6

It was when he went from the cottage to obtain a shovel that he heard the calls for help and after he had called others out to listen the overturned craft was spotted.

Schram and Klein jumped into an auto and raced to the nearest phone to call for help. They then drove to Beechlers where they found John Coan of Escanaba with his boat and motor.

Coan volunteered to help and with Klein to guide him they put out. The boat had not yet soaked up so seams were tight and Klein bailed as they headed in the general direction of the overturned boat, which could not be seen from Beechlers. Then the bailing can was lost overboard and Klein bailed on the bodice front and after taking them into the rescue craft they put in at the Schram cottage, which was the closest point, first aid was given and a physician obtained.

The father and daughter were later returned to their home at Masonville while Phil was taken to St. Francis hospital. His condition is said to be good.

Phil was unconscious, suffering from extreme shock, and was being held on top of the overturned boat by his father when rescued.

Members whose terms are expiring are Leonard J. Harwick, retail division; Gordon Denney, tourist and resort division; William A. Corson and Walter Nelson, industrial division; and Herbert K. Peterson, development division.

Four of the retiring directors were elected for one year last June. One, William A. Corson, was appointed for one year to fill a vacancy in the industrial division. All are eligible for renomination and re-election.

A nominating committee was appointed last week to prepare a slate of candidates, with two for each vacancy.

One candidate in each division will be elected for a three-year term. A second candidate in the industrial division will be elected for two years to fill Corson's position. The candidate receiving the most votes in this division will get the three-year term, and the second high candidate will be named for two years, it is expected.

At the chamber's reorganization meeting last spring, 12 directors were elected, four for one year, four for two years and four for three years. Hold-over directors are:

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

The Escanaba Bears opened the season Sunday on a successful note, playing before a good crowd in fair weather and putting on an excellent performance considering the early stage of the season.... The Bears had their hitting tops on and if they can maintain that pace should have little trouble in the Tri-County circuit.... Rusty Hiltonen worked very well on the Bear mound.

Manager Phil Brazeau had only one complaint following the game. Oddly enough, the beef was directed not at the players but at himself... Phil was a little sore at himself for engaging in a favorite pastime of baseball managers... Umpire heckling... Here's the way he put it:

"Being an umpire myself I know how easy it is to miss one, and I also know how it feels to have someone climb on me for it.... Actually, it isn't fair to the players, the fans or the umpires.... So with that in mind I am definitely no longer an umpire heckler, from this minute on."

Don't get the idea that the Bear manager is getting soft in the head.... He qualifies his statement thusly: "That doesn't mean I am going to play dead.... If it looks to me like we are getting a raw deal I'll yell loud and long.... We want no breaks and umpires are not hired to give breaks to anyone.... But we want what's coming to us and I'll fight to get it."

Phil asked us to pass this personal message on to Umpires Moniowczak and Wohowiak, who handled Sunday's game: "You did a swell job and I'm sorry if I gave you a rough time.... I hope our next meeting will be more pleasant.... And I know it will be."

With all of which we heartily agree.... The umps of course are out there to do a job, and it's tough enough without having the managers and players acting up on every other call.... The obvious effect of such action on the crowd is apparent enough.... Nobody minds the routine objections to umps' decisions.... In fact it's an accepted part of the game.... We're sure if Phil never gets more excited than he did Sunday he won't have any trouble.

Mashie Is Most Effective For Shots About 150 Yards

Thirteenth of a series by members of the P.G.A. By JOHNNY PALMER

Former Western Open Champion

Strive for accuracy rather than distance with the five iron, or mashie.

For this reason, the club is not taken as far back as are longer irons and woods.

The mashie is most effective for shots in the neighborhood of 150 yards. It is medium iron. Other clubs coming under this classification are the four and six irons.

The grip for the normal five-iron shot is the same as the one employed on any other shot. I use the overlapping grip, with the little finger of my right hand entwined between the first and second fingers of my left.

Assuming the proper grip, you should see not more than half of the back of the left hand.

The greatest amount of pressure should be exerted by the left hand.

This center of control should not be altered throughout the swing.

As I wrote in the P.G.A. Teachers' Guide, the feet should be slightly closer together than for a long-iron or wood shot.

The ball is centered.

The shaft of the club and your left arm form an almost straight line to your left shoulder.

My weight distribution is such that there is more weight on my left leg than on the right.

At the three-fourths point of the backswing, my wrists have begun to cock, but my left arm still is straight.

The weight has been transferred almost completely to my right leg.

In the follow through, my weight distribution has changed back to my left and, for the first time, my left arm is bent at the elbow.

My eyes have remained on the spot where the ball originally

Hitting—Gil McDougald, Yankees, hit four home runs, double and single to bat in four runs in New York victory.

Dale Nalon waves from his car after breaking record for 10-mile qualification run for Memorial Day 500-mile race at Indianapolis. Nalon averaged 136.498 mph for the ten miles to break the Indianapolis Speedway's track record. He also made one lap at 137.049 mph to break the lap record.

Major League Clubs In Final Player Switches

NEW YORK—(P)—Major league baseball clubs sharpened their butchers knives and trading wits today in a rush to get within the 25-player roster limit before tomorrow's midnight deadline.

Half of the 16 teams already are down to the required size but the other half have some slick fingaling to do in the next couple of days. Chief of these are the world champion New York Yankees, with three surplus men, and the St. Louis Cardinals, with four.

The Yankees are reported anxious to pull a 3-for-1 or 4-for-1 deal to land the Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw pitcher Bobby Shantz or first baseman Ferris Fain. So far the A's aren't nibbling.

The Yanks and Cards figured in yesterday's biggest maneuvers with the aging and flu-plagued Cardinals coming out of the shuffle with the best-looking catcher.

Chicago (25)—Down to limit. St. Louis (24)—Reduced list one below limit by sending left-handed pitcher Irv Medlinger to Toronto on option.

Detroit (23)—Down to limit but probably will lop off pitcher when ailing catcher Bob Swift returns May 27.

Washington (24)—one to grow on.

National League

St. Louis (29)—Pitcher Erv Dusak and infielders Dick Cole, Eddie Kazak and Glenn Nelson prospects for other climes.

Pittsburgh (28)—Opted on bonus pitcher Paul Pettit to Indianapolis and sent shortstop Whity Thomson to Rochester but three are still to go. On the borderline: Infielders Hank Schenz and Monty McGinn, outfielder Tom Saffell, pitcher Joe Muir.

Philadelphia (27)—Pitcher and

Groth Expected Back In Lineup

WASHINGTON—(P)—The red-hot Detroit Tigers—who win ball games with only one outfielder who can hit—may get some help in that department momentarily.

Centerfielder Johnny Groth is expected back in the lineup sometime during the three-game series here in Washington but he probably won't play in tonight's game against the Senators.

Groth was batting .273 when he was sidelined by a pitched ball eight games ago. He started very knots.

"How does he do it?" Lopez asked before last night's game. "I just can't figure out why he beats us so regularly. He's no better than lots of pitchers in the league."

Some two and a half hours later, Lopat had added another to his long string of victories over the Redskins, his favorite people. The score was 11-4, and Lopez still was groping for an answer.

Increase Lead

The victory enabled the Yanks to increase their lead over the runner-up Washington Senators to two and one half games. The Senators dropped an 8-7, 11-inning decision to the Boston Red Sox in the only other game played in the major leagues.

Action picks up in both leagues today at St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit in the American league's eastern cities for the first time this year. Meanwhile, eastern clubs in the National league play their first games in the west.

The third place Chicago White Sox, surprise team in the American league, clash with the Red Sox in New York. The Tigers will start against the Red Sox' Willard Nixon (1-0).

Games Tonight

The Tigers will send Hal Newhouser (2-2) against the Senators' Sandalio Consuegra (3-0) at Washington. The St. Louis Browns take on the equally lowly Athletics in Philadelphia with Dick Starr (0-1) going against the A's Bobby Shantz (1-2).

Brooklyn's front-running Dodgers clash with the Cubs in Chicago in the National's lone day game. Big Don Newcombe (3-1) is scheduled to face Chicago's Bob Rush (2-1).

The runner-up Boston Braves will send Vern Bickford (5-1) against the Reds' Ewell Blackwell (4-2) at Cincinnati. The New York Giants, steadily climbing up the ladder, open at Pittsburgh with rookie George Spencer (1-0) going against the Pirates' Cliff Chambers (3-3).

The flu-ridden St. Louis Cardinals take on the Philadelphia Phillies with rookie Tom Pollock (2-2) slated to face the Phils Russ Meyer (1-1). Only three and one half games separate the last place Reds from the front-running Dodgers.

Two Indian Homers

Lopat wasn't exactly brilliant against the Indians. He surrendered only six hits but two of them were home runs by former Yankee George Stirnweiss and Jim Hegan. The largest crowd of the major league season, 66,265 paid fans witnessed the game.

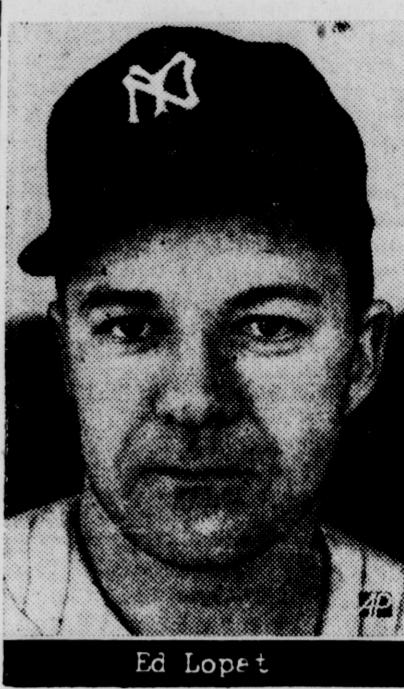

But everything the Indians did went wrong. In the very first inning, Sam Chapman, newest Indian, played a looper by Gil McDougald into an inside the park homer. Later Mickey Mantle got a double on a routine "single" to center. In the seventh, Joe DiMaggio scored from first on a wild pitch and two errors.

At Washington, Fred Hatfield scored the winning run from third base with two out in the 11th when leftfielder Gil Coan dropped Matt Batts' easy fly ball.

The Senators scored six runs in the third inning but the Red Sox fought back and scored three runs in the fourth and two each in the seventh and eighth. Relief pitcher Harry Taylor was the winner and former Red Sox pitcher Mickey Harris the loser.

Coan held an eight-point bulge over Detroit's Dick Kryhoski who had .404 for second place. Both Coan and Kryhoski broke into the top ten leaders' list for the first time. Previously they had too few times at bat to qualify.

The Tigers, three games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, will face all four eastern clubs in a 10-game jaunt.

Included are three-game series in Washington and Boston and two-game series in Philadelphia and New York. The Tigers won series from all these teams except Philadelphia during their recent home stand.

Dick Kryhoski has the longest hitting streak of any Tiger. The big first baseman has batted safely in the last 11 games and is hitting .404.

Dick Kryhoski has the longest hitting streak of any Tiger. The big first baseman has batted safely in the last 11 games and is hitting .404.

One of Manager Red Rolfe's biggest headaches is finding a relief pitcher who can fill the shoes of young Ray Herbert, who will be inducted into the army Wednesday. Rolfe can pick from Gene Bearden, Virgil Trucks, Earl Johnson and Hal White. But none has proved a sure-fire stopper.

Hal Newhouser is scheduled to seek his third win against the Senators and their Sandalio Consuegra, who has won three. Hal won his last two starts but dropped two early season games.

The Tigers, three games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, will face all four eastern clubs in a 10-game jaunt.

Included are three-game series in Washington and Boston and two-game series in Philadelphia and New York. The Tigers won series from all these teams except Philadelphia during their recent home stand.

Raps Country Club Colleges

Babson Advocates Revamped Courses

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — To supplement my recent column, I will give a suggestion as to another solution of the present row between the federal draft authorities and U. S. mothers. It is based somewhat on the recommendations of Senator Smathers of Florida.

I have always held that most privately-endowed, tax-exempt colleges must adopt some form of accelerated education which will train students to work instead of play, or else they must become church controlled and supported, or state controlled, supported by taxation. These privately-endowed colleges are wasting too much of their students' time and money. They will force the opening of government colleges. Now let me expand upon what these government colleges may be like. My comments are based upon a life of experience with educational work.

My Own Experience

During World War II the Navy took over Babson Institute and there trained 3,000 men in purchasing, accounting and economics. They had wonderful discipline; they taught more efficiently and, of course, had no promotional expenses. Our regular professors could not stand the strain of the work; finally regular Naval officers, trained at Annapolis, did the teaching.

A Navy captain served as acting president. Our own president resigned; our trustees became dummies; and our instructors were replaced; but the Babson Institute during that period did the finest work in its history. In addition to the men getting a wonderful business education in a few months, they were built up physically and morally. Imagine an endowed college getting its students out on the campus every morning all winter at 6:30 for "setting up" exercises! The students were given no free evenings, except Saturday.

Training Makes Men

But you say: "We can't educate all our boys for war." Of course not. Yet, no graduate of Annapolis or West Point need remain in the Navy or Army more than three or four years, respectively, after graduation. It is said that a larger percentage of Annapolis graduates become outstanding businessmen than do the graduates of any state university. Two of my intimate friends were such examples—John W. Weeks, who became Boston's leading banker, and later U. S. Senator; and Sidney Z. Mitchell, who after leaving an Alabama farm, as a barefooted boy, created the billion dollar Electric Bond & Share company.

A fair question is whether or not this discipline and efficiency could be kept up in peace times. Politics, apparently, has not affected Annapolis or West Point. Another question:—If the government had 100 such colleges, could the discipline and standards be kept as high? They perhaps could be, under joint civilian and military control.

Military Colleges Praised

Probably it would be a mistake to make such a shift-over all at once; but the Navy, Army and Air Force could each take over a few of the poorly-endowed colleges and try it out—during both war and peace. The present tendency of our "Ivy" colleges to become "country clubs" must be stopped. Most engineering colleges and colleges of business administration would welcome the experiment. Surely, sensible parents would like to see this experiment a success.

The Conant plan of having all boys drop school work entirely at 18 years of age and go into mass military training for two years is wrong. Some boys might make good students after returning; but I doubt if the plan would make better men. On the other hand, the present haphazard system we now use seems impracticable if we are to be in a "cold war" for ten years more. Another plan is to combine the last year of high school with the first year of college in a twelve months' course of eight hours per day. Or, we could have more colleges like The Citadel of Charleston, S. C., the Virginia Military Institute of Lexington, Va., or the Pennsylvania Military Academy of Chester, Pa. These and others now train efficiently for both war and peace.

Gen. Vaughn AVOIDS TROUBLE; No Speeches

PENNNSVILLE, N. J.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. H. Vaughn, president Truman's military aide, is determined to stay out of trouble by not making speeches.

Vaughn turned down an invitation to address a Veterans of Foreign Wars memorial day service May 27 because speechmaking "is not really part of my duty."

The general made the statement in a letter to Otto Simberg of Quinton, N. J., chairman of the arrangements committee:

"Every time I try to help somebody out I seem to get into trouble," Vaughn wrote. "x x x so I think it is better to just refrain from making speeches."
